DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to the rejection(s) of the claims under 35 USC 102 and 103 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made as set below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

3. Claims 1, 4, 10, 11, 15 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Aviza (2005/0126007). Aviza discloses housing 16; blade having cutting edge 18; cap is the components of cartridge 12 above the blades 18 in figure 14A; guard is the components of cartridge 12 below the blades 18; elongated guard strip/shaving aid 24; guard strip ends are the right and left sides of strip 24; elastomeric guard fins 20 on the lateral sides of the strip 24; depressions are between the fins in figure 14A, which are below the strip 24, and above the strip 24; handle 14; elongated cap strip 22 as disclosed in US Patent Application 60/455,646 as recited in paragraph [0104]; depressions are shown in figure 14A, which are below the strip 24, in between the fins. Note that exfoliating elements, such as microcapsules of citric acid, are shaving aid because exfoliating elements can help release hairs trapped just below the skin surface and favorably orient the hairs just before the hairs are cut by razor blades, leading to a closer and more efficient shave.

4. Claims 2, 6, 15 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Aviza. Aviza discloses housing 16; blade having cutting edge 18; guard is the components of cartridge 12 below the blades 18 in figure 14A; front is adjacent the guard; cap is the components of cartridge 12 above the blades 18; elongated guard strip 24; elongated cap strip 22 as disclosed in US Patent Application 60/455,646 as recited in paragraph [0104]; guard strip ends are the right and left sides of strip 24; elastomeric cap fins 20 on the lateral sides of the strip 24; depressions are shown in figure 14A, which are below the strip 24, in between the fins; handle 14; handle connection 16. Note that exfoliating elements, such as microcapsules of citric acid, are shaving aid because exfoliating elements can help release hairs trapped just below the skin surface and favorably orient the hairs just before the hairs are cut by razor blades, leading to a closer and more efficient shave.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aviza in view of Gilder (6,298,557), hereafter Gilder '557. Aviza discloses everything as noted above, but does not disclose curved fins. However, Gilder '557 teaches curved fins in figure 1. It would have been obvious to provide curved fins in Aviza as taught by Gilder '577 in order to funnel hairs into the fins and encourage interaction with the projections. Note that the concave faces of the fins of Gilder are interpreted as depressions.

7. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aviza in view of Santhagens Van Eibergen et al (6,671,961), hereafter Eibergen. Aviza discloses everything as noted above, but does not disclose a second cap strip. However, Eibergen teaches second cap strip 23. It would have been obvious to provide a second cap strip in Aviza as taught by Gilder in order to further reduce the friction force between the skin surface and the shaving blade unit.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 5-7, 13 and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Amendment

9. Applicant's arguments filed 07/11/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant asserts that an exfoliating member is not a shaving aid, however, the exfoliating member is a shaving aid because it delivers a roughened surface parallel to the cutting edge, which removes the dead skin from the face of the user making it easier cut the hair from the skin, or to apply a face moisturizing lotion after shaving.
